GLOBAL CLASSROOM PROJECT

Intro Presentation Assignment

For your 1st assignment, prepare PowerPoint slides which will introduce you to our international partners.

DUE: Sep. 21, no later than 12:00am, please email it to marianellafa@hotmail.com

The slides need to contain at least the following content:

- Name; age; major(s)/minor(s), email address
- Other courses you are taking this semester (use titles, not class #s)
- The city/town where you are from.
- Something "favorite,": e.g. book, movie, activities, etc.
- Anything else you think will help our international partners understand who you are

For illustrations/photos on the slides, you must include at least the following:

- A picture of you.
- A picture of where you are from (either something from the actual town, or something that would be typical).
- A picture of a favorite activity (sports, TV, books, etc.).
- NOTE: pictures require captions (texts that appear below the images)

Requirements:

- Use your last name as the name of the document, i.e., "Vally.ppt." Do not simply call it "presentation.ppt" or "5450.ppt."
- The presentation must be saved as "PowerPoint 97-2003 Presentation (*.ppt)". If the suffix appears as ".pptx" you must do a "save as" and convert it to the 97-2003 version.
- Every slide must include at least one illustration.
- Use a plain background. Not all computer systems have the same formatting capabilities as yours.
- Do not use any animation, builds, or sounds. They slow down the presentations and often do not work when downloaded them.
- Because we use a "picture-in-a-picture" function when presenting PowerPoint slides to our partners, you must NOT put text in the upper or lower right corners of your slides. Portions of your images may be there, but be aware that part of them may end up cut off.
- Do not use too much text per slide. Your slide font needs to be at least 24pt. It is better to use multiple slides than try to get too much on a slide.
- Each image must be no more than 500k, and the whole ppt should be no more than 3MB
- Each image must be clear when projected on a screen.
- Be careful when using terms or names that might be unfamiliar to the international audience.
- Your PowerPoint must be sent to me no later than the time indicated on the assignment.

Sample Group PowerPoint Presentations for UCR Students

(preparing to work in groups to deliver ppt to the international partners)

UCR presentations to UNL for _____ (to be presented _____, 8am)

[Prepare at least 3 powerpoint slides, along with illustrations.

3-4 persons are needed for each topic

Topics

1. A day in the life of a UCR-SO student, i.e., from 1st thing in the morning, through classes, to the evening.
2. Campus Life, i.e., residence halls; Activities & events on campus
3. Campus athletics, i.e., spectator sports and sports all students can participate
4. Volunteer activities, i.e., what UCR-SO students do to give back to the community

Question-Answer Journal, 2010

You will fill out one of these forms for each day we connect with our international partner.

Your name _____ Date _____ Today's international partner _____

1. List the presentations we heard today (from UCR and/or from UNL international partners): include name of speaker(s)
2. List the questions you asked today: include who you addressed them to and the answer you received
3. List any questions asked of you: include who asked the question and the answer you provided
4. What words or concepts were used by UCR students that might not be understood, or misunderstood, by our UNL partners?
5. Other comments on today's class:

Guidelines for video sessions

- In both lecture and group discussion sessions, but especially in group discussions, remember that everyone has an accent, including Americans. That makes it hard for others to understand. Also, the audio is never 100% perfect, and that also makes it difficult to understand. So we must remind ourselves and others on our side to speak slowly and enunciate clearly so no time is wasted on repeating what has been said.
- You will be tempted to watch the video screen when you are speaking, since we like to see how people respond to us. However, try to look at the camera while speaking.
- The video conferencing camera starts by sending an image of the room, and then only sends images of what changes. Therefore, we need to limit our movements. Try not to move around in your chair, play with pencils or paper, or have a lot of unnecessary head movements.
- The microphones are quite sensitive. So, PLEASE, no side conversations while others are speaking.
- In this course there is limited time and opportunity, so efforts must be made to ensure everyone has a chance to voice his/her opinion.
- Some students are shy, and some foreign students may be very concerned about making errors in speaking English. When this occurs we should encourage that student to share opinions.
- Hold up your name tag while speaking at least in the first few sessions until everyone can put the name and the face together.
- The number one cardinal rule is that faculty and students alike have to be careful in giving respect to each other at all times, in speech, gesture and nonverbal behavior. This is a class where people of different cultures who know little about each other come together in a pretty intense way, and there are surely cultural sensitivities that we must respect. There will be times when we do not feel comfortable with certain aspects about another culture, or disagree, or even disagree strongly, we still have to respect their culture. Most people are patriotic love their country and endorse the values of their own country. Most people are full of the best intentions when they meet people with different cultural values and norms, this class is not the place nor time to show others what is right and what is wrong, to exercise our judgment and place our values on others, or to win over another culture. This a course where we create a virtual environment for our students and faculty to learn English and about other cultures, to know how young people from different countries feels, and hopefully to build some personal bonds and relationships that will inspire a feeling of wanting to know more and even caring about other cultures.

- “Expect the unexpected” in almost every class session. There will be technological glitches and we must be prepared for this and be patient. This is reality when working with new technology.
